

SOUTH EASTERN CARPENTRY
Specialist Joinery and Fit-Out Contractor

Nuffield PPU at Bart's

Sector: Healthcare

Works: Carpentry 1st & 2nd Fix

Client: Kier Construction (London)

Architect: Ryder Architecture

The project is effectively spread across three buildings of the St Bartholomew's Hospital estate which are all unused by the NHS Trust & have been vacant for several years.

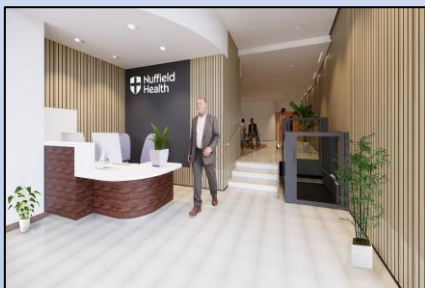

The Old Pathology Building (Edwardian "Restrained Classical" Style Facade.)

The Modern Pathology Building (1960 Infill between Old Path adjacent to Grade 1 North Wing and Grade 2 Listed Museum)

The Residential Staff Quarters Building (Previously extended with retained Edwardian "Restrained Classical" Style Facade.)

The new design is being developed to meet Nuffield requirements to deliver efficient & patient focussed healthcare facilities and incorporating Nuffield experience & learning developed over 40 years operating similar Hospital sites.

The Nuffield site will be designed to operate as a stand-alone private hospital facility as far as possible but will share some services & suppliers with the existing hospital complex.
